INSTRUCTIONS

PLANTING RASPBERRIES, BLACKBERRIES, DEWBERRIES, YOUNGBERRIES, BOYSENBERRIES

The above varieties resemble one another in general cultural needs.

WHAT TO PLANT—Strong plants of any variety in this catalog are good.

WHERE—Plant in almost any soil. However, berries grow best in rich soil.

WHEN—Plant in early spring or fall.

HOW—Work ground evenly and thoroughly. Make hole large enough to accommodate roots without cramping. Cover crown of plant 1 to 2 inches, being sure the roots are not turned up or crowded. Firm dirt around roots but keep surface of ground loose. In mid-summer after canes have grown, pinch top about two feet above ground to make branch. The second year after harvesting the crop, cut out all old canes. Repeat year after year. Cultivation and fertility are essential for good, thrifty, disease-free plants.

PLANTING DISTANCE—Raspberries and Blackberries 3 ft. by 6 ft.; Youngberries, Boysenberries and Dewberries 6 ft. by 6 ft.

A Basket of Cumberland Raspberries

CULTURAL ADVICE FOR MOST SUCCESSFUL RASPBERRY GROWING

Plant dependable, high yielding and disease resistant varieties listed on this page. Any plants that show signs of disease should be removed and burned. Plant early as possible in the spring. In order to promote strong, stocky plants pinch tops of new canes, when 18 inches tall, each summer, this makes more lateral branches resulting in heavier yields. Liberal quantities of manure and high nitrogen fertilizers are very beneficial. To maintain clean thrifty plants and control anthracnose use 1 lb. dry lime and sulphur to 5 gallons of water and spray in early spring before foliage starts. Also advisable to dust foliage throughout summer with sulphur. Cultivate regularly throughout the summer checking growth in late August because of danger from winter injury.

CUMBERLAND 1410—The largest of all black caps; firm and a good shipper. One of the most profitable as a market berry.
